2014 ANNUAL REPORT

to the community

Dear Friends,

For six years, I had the good fortune to work for something I believe in, with the support of a special community, in a unique place. I love Utah. I love the people that live here. I love the fact that we can be different and disagree. I love that we are listening and evolving. I love the organizations and causes that thrive here, I love the wondrous places that we get to call our home. I love the powder and the slot canyons. And I love the fact that this place is imbued with optimism, enterprise, and opportunity and a deep love of family – of all kinds. It's what makes the Community Foundation of Utah the most uniquely innovative organization of its kind.

“Believe” is the watchword of each of you who have helped build the Community Foundation of Utah – and those who will make it even better.

- We believe in integrity, innovation and entrepreneurship.
- We believe in sharing our good fortune for the common good.
- We believe in civil, civic dialogue.
- We believe in a foundation by and for the people of this great state.
- We believe in the power of love, and we believe in this place we love.

As this 2014 Annual Report to the Community more than demonstrates, we have a collective belief in the common good. We continued our work to grow philanthropy through Love UT Give UT, and further realized our goal to help Utah nonprofits increase their self-reliance and sustainability through high-impact engagements with entrepreneurs. 2014 realized exactly what we set out to do in 2008. With your support, we have indeed engaged the full diversity of our state for the common good.

Looking Forward

I am grateful to each of you, for your belief in the Community Foundation of Utah and all it stands for. It is because of our collective belief that we've gotten this far. I'm grateful for the privilege of building this organization with you all by my side. As the organization continues to evolve in 2015, so will the leadership. I am honored to welcome the next Executive Director, Alex Eaton. I am thrilled that the Community Foundation of Utah is surrounded by community and thought leaders who will only continue to grow the good that we have all created together. This is just the beginning.

Sincerely,

Dear Friends,

It is extremely rare when you set out with an ambitious charge and the organization you helped create excels at achieving its goal. When the Community Foundation of Utah was founded, we drafted a charge that read:

“Utah’s heritage has spawned a culture of creative ‘can-do’ entrepreneurs. Ours is a dynamic, growing economy, driven in large measure by incredibly talented people growing successful businesses dedicated to solving market needs.”

“What if we could engage the full diversity of our state’s resources to create a long-term investment in Utah?”

Thank you to our board members, our first executive director, Fraser Nelson, our first Board Chair and co-founder, Greg Warnock, and many others in non-profits and philanthropy who believed in our mission and invested in some way. Because of these fantastic people, in just six years we have now helped invest $19MM and currently have $25MM in donor advised and other funds intended to make Utah a better place. We have held convenings of nonprofits and philanthropists and introduced a statewide day of giving for Utah.

Our Social Investors Forum is another powerful demonstration of this accomplishment. The first forum, held February 14, 2014, proved that $50,000 can make a significant and disruptive impact on Utah’s philanthropic landscape and has been used as the model for Colorado Impact Days. The Social Investors Forum is held twice annually, providing a long-term commitment on behalf of the Foundation to sustainable models of solving social problems.

The Community Foundation of Utah helps bring people together who share a commitment to the common good. One of over 700 Community Foundations in the United States, the impact we have made so far will be lasting. And we are just getting started.

Thank you all for helping make a difference,

Jeremy Lund

One of over 700 community foundations nationwide, we use our extensive knowledge of charitable planning to unite Utah's giving community and entrepreneurial spirit.

The Community Foundation of Utah is accredited with the most rigorous standards in philanthropy.

100 YEARS of giving and growing together

Since the creation of the first community foundation in America in 1914, the concept of contributing resources to a permanent community improvement fund has been adopted and adapted by citizens on every continent except Antarctica. As local people everywhere seek a greater say over their destinies, this philanthropic movement continues to grow.

Today, the Community Foundation of Utah is one of more than 1,800 place-based foundations worldwide that are empowering people to address local challenges and opportunities. By strengthening civil society, community foundations are helping to fill voids in global leadership and build a better world, place by place by place.

LEVERAGING IMPACT

Field of Interest Funds at Work

Utah Natural Heritage Fund

The Community Foundation of Utah received a $25,000 grant from the Local Sustainability Matching Fund, a national program of the Funders' Network for Smart Growth and Livable Communities and the Urban Sustainability Directors Network.

These funds, which were matched by the Foundation's Utah Natural Heritage Fund, were awarded to help increase access to fresh produce, help community members acquire leadership and sustainable organic gardening skills and even provide opportunities for social enterprise.

Combined, the $50,000 was used by Wasatch Community Gardens to establish two new community gardens, one in Popperton Park in the Avenues area, and the other in a low income community in the Central City area.

The Community Foundation is honored to be a part of this public-private partnership, which is a wonderful demonstration of leveraging resources to reduce barriers to urban food production.

*"We are committed to sustainable nonprofits and sustainable communities."
- Community Foundation of Utah Board Chairman Jeramy Lund*

Utah Women's Giving Circle

The Utah Women's Giving Circle leveraged donations and collectively awarded $23,000 to four Utah nonprofits focused on empowering Utah women and girls.

Scholarships

"These programs have been established and funded by generous local individuals who know there is no better investment in Utah's future than the education of its residents. The breadth of these scholarships reflects the diversity of our state and the donors who make these awards possible." - Blair Hodson

ENLIGHTENED 50 (E-50)

The Community Foundation of Utah has, for the fifth year, recognized fifty individuals who are making a measureable – but often unsung - difference in the lives of Utahns. Called the 'Enlightened 50', or E-50, members are nominated by the community.

This year's winners from across Utah include public servants and elected officials, nonprofit and business leaders, scientists and artists, educators and entrepreneurs. For the first time, two teenagers, Canyon Viau and Deja Viau, founders of "Freshman Inventors", were selected.

Inaugural Utah Ethical Leadership Awards Announced:

The Utah Ethical Leadership Awards program was launched in 2014 to recognize and support the ethical leadership of organizations in the state of Utah. The awards were also designed to recognize organizations that embody the spirit of ethical leadership exhibited by Bill Daniels, a founder of the modern cable industry and former owner of the Utah Stars. Bill Daniels believed deeply in ethics and integrity, and in the importance of absolute ethical principles, which earned him great respect throughout the business world. The awards program is sponsored by the Community Foundation of Utah, the Daniels Fund, the Daniels Fund Ethics Initiative at the David Eccles School of Business, Utah Business Magazine, and the Center for Public Policy and Administration at the University of Utah.

"The Utah Ethical Leadership Awards recognize Utah businesses, nonprofit organizations, and government entities that embody best practices in ethical behaviors. The finalists and awardees are a great representation of Utah's principle-based ethical leadership."
